Deal Wines Of Italy

You love Italian wines but the cheap ones don't taste all that great and you can't afford the expensive ones. There has got to be a "middle ground" where you can drink well at a decent price.

Looking for Italian wines in the region of Abruzzo is a great place to begin your search for a great deal. For just $15 you can find a very nice wine.

Montepulciano d'Abruzzo

Montepulciano is the second most planted grape in Italy. While it grows mainly in the South of Italy, the Montepulciano grapes that grow in the Abruzzo region generally produce the best wines.

It's easy to find a Montepulciano d'Abruzzo in your local wine shop and they are almost always a very approachable wine. Part of the reason it's a deal wine is because they make such large quantities that it pushes prices down - an advantage for you.

STARTER WINE

Masciarelli
Montepulciano d'Abruzzo

A great "deal" starter wine, the Masciarelli winery produces very easy-to-drink Montepulciano d'Abruzzo. Smooth with bright red fruits and easy tannins.

You can find this anywhere from $10-$15. From here you'll create a foundation for what Montepulciano d'Abruzzo tastes like as you continue to explore this wine and its other producers.
